INFORMATION

Central and North West London NHS Foundation Trust (CNWL)

CNWL is a large and diverse organisation, providing health care services for people with a wide range of physical and mental health needs. The Trust employs approximately 7,000 staff to provide more than 300 different health services across 150 sites. CNWL services in Hillingdon cover a broad range of both mental health and physical health community services as follows:

- a) Mental health - Adult mental health both inpatient services and community based services, older adult mental health services including inpatient services, community based provision and specialist memory service, psychiatric liaison services with in-reach to Hillingdon Hospital A&E and wards, IAPT, mental health rehabilitation, addiction services, (drugs and alcohol), and child and adolescent mental health services (CAMHS).
- b) Community physical health - including Rapid Response service to prevent unnecessary hospital admission, both adult and paediatric speech and language therapy, specialist community dentistry, home-based children's nursing service, adult district nursing, specialist community paediatricians as part of the Child Development services, school nursing service, specialist wound care services, adult home-on and rehabilitation services, wheelchair service, health visiting, Hillingdon Centre For Independent Living (HCIL), Looked After Children specialist team, community based palliative care team, inpatient intermediate care ward (Hawthorn Intermediate Care Unit), Podiatry and musculo-skeletal physiotherapy services.

CNWL services are delivered in a variety of settings; predominantly in patient's homes but also in hospital settings, GP practices, health centres, schools and children's centres. Approximately 1,000 CNWL staff work across the London Borough of Hillingdon with 600 of these living in the Borough.

Child & Adolescent Mental Health Services (CAMHS)

Hillingdon CAMHS provides community mental health services to children and young people up to the age of 18 with complex mental health difficulties and their families in a range of different ways depending on their needs. The types of difficulties dealt with by CNWL are predominantly what would be described as Tier 3 (complex and severe) CAMHS services. Due to resourcing issues, there is a limited service provided at Tier 2 (mild/moderate):

- Complex emotional and behavioural problems
- Deliberate self-harm
- Anxiety and depression and serious mental illness such as psychosis and eating disorders
- Family relationship issues and parenting
- Hyperactivity or poor concentration (ADHD, ASD)
- School refusal
- Children with mental health needs related to learning difficulties, physical illness or disability
- Challenging behaviour

Psychologists, psychiatrists and therapists provide assessment and treatment packages for children, young people and their families. Treatment may include cognitive behaviour therapy (CBT), family therapy, play therapy and individual/group psychotherapy. Medication is also used when appropriate and carefully monitored by the doctors.

Tier 4 inpatient services for children with the most serious problems, are not provided by CNWL for Hillingdon children. This service is commissioned from a variety of providers via NHS England.

At the External Services Scrutiny Committee meeting on 15 July 2014, it was noted that the types of difficulties dealt with by CNWL were predominantly what would be described as Tier 3 (complex and severe) CAMHS services, with a limited service provided at Tier 2 (mild/moderate) due to resourcing issues. Tier 4 services were provided by a number of providers that were commissioned by NHS England (NHSE).

It was recognised that there had been a number of commissioning gaps in the CAMHS service provided in the Borough and Ms Maria O'Brien had advised that work was underway with the CCG and local authority to address these issues.

The CQC undertook an inspection of CNWL in February 2015. The resultant CQC report has been attached at Appendix A.

NHS Hillingdon Clinical Commissioning Group (CCG)

The proposal for new clinical commissioning groups was first made in the 2010 White Paper, 'Equity and Excellence: Liberating the NHS' as part of the Government's long-term vision for the future of the NHS. In order to shift decision-making as close as possible to patients, power and responsibility for commissioning services was devolved to local groups of clinicians. The role of CCGs is set out in the Health and Social Care Act 2012 and specifies that CCGs will:

- Put patients at the heart of everything the NHS does
- Focus on continually improving those things that really matter to patients – the outcome of their healthcare

- Empower and liberate clinicians to innovate, with the freedom to focus on improving healthcare services

The CCG is a group of all local GPs and health professionals that is responsible for planning and designing local health services for Hillingdon residents. It is responsible for buying/commissioning health services (including community health and hospital services) for people in Hillingdon. These services include:

- Planned hospital care
- Urgent and emergency care
- Rehabilitation care
- Community health services
- Mental health and learning disability services

The organisation covers the same geographical area as the London Borough of Hillingdon and is made up of all 48 GP practices in the Borough. It works with patients and health and social care partners (e.g., local hospitals, local authorities and local community groups) to ensure services meet local needs.

The CCG has a governing body which meets in public each month and the agendas and papers for these meetings can be found on the CCG website. The governing body is made up of GPs from the Hillingdon area and at least one registered nurse and one secondary care specialist doctor.

Hillingdon CCG is overseen by NHS England at a national level. NHS England is the body that ensures that clinical commissioning groups have the capacity and capability to successfully commission services for their local population. As well as overseeing clinical commissioning groups, NHS England commissions the following services itself:

- General Practice
- Pharmacy
- Dentists
- Specialist services (i.e. those required by a limited number of people)

Better Care Fund

The CCG is working with the Council and key voluntary and community sector organisations to provide more services that cover both health and social care. Government funding has been made available through the Better Care Fund to support specific services that are provided to patients using health and social care, in the first instances, targeted at services for the over 65s.

Royal Brompton and Harefield NHS Foundation Trust (RB&H)

Royal Brompton & Harefield NHS Foundation Trust is the largest specialist heart and lung centre in the UK, and among the largest in Europe. The Trust works from two sites: Royal Brompton Hospital in Chelsea, West London; and Harefield Hospital near Uxbridge.

RB&H is a partnership of two specialist hospitals which are known throughout the world for their expertise, standard of care and research success. As a specialist Trust, it only provides treatment for people with heart and lung disease. This means that its doctors, nurses and other healthcare staff are experts in their chosen field, and many move to the RB&H hospitals from throughout the UK, Europe and beyond, so they can develop their particular skills even further. The Trust carries out some of the most complicated surgery, offers some of the most sophisticated treatment that is available anywhere in the world and treats patients from all over the UK and around the globe.

The organisation has a worldwide reputation for heart and lung research. It works on numerous research projects that bring benefits to patients in the form of new, more effective and efficient treatments for heart and lung disease. The Trust is also responsible for medical advances taken up across the NHS and beyond. Each year, between 500 and 600 papers by researchers associated with the Trust are published in peer-reviewed scientific journals, such as The Lancet and New England Journal of Medicine.

The service at Harefield Hospital has developed rapidly into a busy 24/7/365 acute cardiac centre. To ensure that RBH is able to meet the increasing demand, it had put investment plans in place to expand capacity at Harefield Hospital as a precursor to larger scale redevelopment on the site. It is anticipated that the three phases to the redevelopment will result in a 20% increase in capacity at Harefield Hospital:

- Phase 1 - to provide an additional 6 critical care beds, a new purpose built scanning centre and a new 18 bed inpatient ward (Holly Ward). It was anticipated that this would be completed by March 2015.
- Phase 2 - to provide an endoscopy / minor procedures facility and more day case / short stay beds and a daycare lounge. In addition, Oak Ward will be rebuilt as a 2 storey ward (providing an additional 30 beds), the hospital entrance will be reconfigured and the lodge house will be converted for use by up to 4 patients who are medically but not socially fit for discharge.
- Phase 3 - will see the creation of a new purpose built 3 storey graduated care unit, an imaging centre and bring together 48 critical care and high dependency beds. It is anticipated that this will be completed in the next 3-4 years.

The Hillingdon Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust (THH)

The Hillingdon Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust (THH) provides services from both Hillingdon Hospital and Mount Vernon Hospital. THH delivers high quality healthcare to the residents of the London Borough of Hillingdon and, increasingly, to those living in the surrounding areas of Ealing, Harrow, Buckinghamshire and Hertfordshire, giving a total catchment population of over 350,000 people. Providing the majority of services from the Trust, Hillingdon Hospital is the only acute hospital in Hillingdon with a busy Accident and Emergency department, inpatients, day surgery and outpatient clinics.

THH provides some services at the Mount Vernon Hospital, in co-operation with the East & North Hertfordshire NHS Trust. Mount Vernon Hospital has a modern Diagnostic and Treatment Centre and new buildings house four state-of-the-art operating theatres to carry out elective surgery, plus outpatient services, a spacious waiting area and coffee shop.

The Trust has been awarded £12.4 million from the Department of Health to re-engineer its Emergency Care Department at Hillingdon Hospital. This was the second largest successful bid awarded to London Trusts, as part of a wider £330 million allocation for England. The aim of the project is to redesign emergency care pathways to reflect best practice for increasing primary care and reducing admission and length of stay in hospital. Alongside this, a new Urgent Care Centre has been developed offering quick treatment to patients who do not need the full A&E service. This is an extremely large and very exciting project for the Trust, it is the biggest development on the Hillingdon site for 40 years and will make a huge difference to the emergency department and for local people.

It is anticipated that the redevelopment will see improvements made to the hospital's A&E department, paediatric emergency department, acute medical admissions unit and endoscopy unit. The design of the building and changes in the clinical pathways were developed in conjunction with patient groups, the clinical staff and local GPs. Dr Richard Grocott-Mason, the Trust's Joint Medical Director, says: "The guiding principle behind our plans is to ensure that patients can access the right service at the right time. This redevelopment will improve the care we can offer to patients and help to shorten the time that they spend in hospital. It will also strengthen the Trust's position as a 'fixed point' for acute care as identified by the North West London 'Shaping a healthier future' programme."

Shaping a healthier future (SAHF)

At the External Services Scrutiny Committee meeting on 15 July 2014, Mr Shane DeGaris, Chief Executive of THH, advised that the Trust's outline business case (OBC) in relation to Shaping a healthier future review was expected to be signed off by the THH Board in July 2014. The OBCs for North West London (NWL) would be considered as part of an overall plan for NWL. It was anticipated that the Trust would receive £17m as part of this review to help with the backlog of maintenance and building improvements. A further £23m was expected for work in relation to Theatre upgrade and the expansion of A&E, maternity and critical care services.

Shaping a healthier future is aimed at improving healthcare by investing in local, community-based services in North West London (NWL) and concentrating specialist care, including services available in A&Es, in major centres of excellence. Clinicians leading the programme believe the proposals have the potential to save hundreds of lives each year by improving both primary care¹ and emergency care².

With regard to the SAHF proposals, it has generally been thought that, in theory, there will be no impact on the waiting times in Hillingdon Hospital's Accident and Emergency if patients are transferred following the closure of A&E at Ealing Hospital. This would be achieved by increasing the staffing and using the embedded funding.

In 2012/2013, 4,205 babies were delivered at Hillingdon Hospital (3,200 in 2004/2005). It is anticipated that the developments resultant from SAHF proposals would increase this total by around 2,000. THH has successfully bid for £741k of Government funding which is being used to refurbish and modernise the ten delivery rooms on the ground floor delivery suite. This funding is completely separate from any funding that might be forthcoming as part of the SAHF proposals to increase maternity capacity at Hillingdon.

The London Ambulance Service NHS Trust (LAS)

The London Ambulance Service NHS Trust (LAS) is the busiest emergency ambulance service in the UK to provide healthcare that is free to patients at the time they receive it. The Trust works closely with hospitals and other healthcare professionals, as well as with the other emergency services and is the only NHS Trust that covers the whole of London. It is also central to the emergency response to major and terrorist threats in the capital.

¹ Primary Care - Services which are the main or first point of contact for the patient, provided by GPs community providers and so on.

² Emergency Care - Treatment for medical and surgical emergencies that are likely to need admission to hospital. This includes severe pneumonia, diabetic coma, bleeding from the gut, complicated fractures that need surgery, and other serious illnesses.

The 999 service LAS provides to Londoners is purchased by Clinical Commissioning Groups and its performance is monitored by NHS England but, ultimately, LAS is responsible to the Department of Health. LAS has over 5,000 staff, based at ambulance stations and support offices across London and its accident and emergency service is split into three operational areas: west, east and south. Each of these areas is managed by an assistant director of operations, and each ambulance station complex has its own ambulance operations manager.

Information in relation to complaints made to the LAS have been attached at Appendix B.

The CQC undertook an inspection of the LAS in June 2015. The resultant CQC report will be published later in the year.

Healthwatch Hillingdon

Healthwatch Hillingdon is a new health watchdog run by and for local people. It is independent of the NHS and the local Council. Healthwatch Hillingdon aims to help residents get the best out of their health and care services and give them a voice so that they can influence and challenge how health and care services are provided throughout Hillingdon. Healthwatch Hillingdon can also provide residents with information about local health and care services, and support individuals if they need help to resolve a complaint about their NHS treatment or social care.

From April 2013, Healthwatch Hillingdon replaced the Hillingdon Local Involvement Network (LINK) and became the new local champion for health and social care services. It aims to give residents a stronger voice to influence how these services are provided. Healthwatch Hillingdon is an independent organisation that is able to employ its own staff and volunteers.

Healthwatch aims to listen to what people say and use this information to help shape health and social care services. It will help residents to share their views about local health and social care services and build a picture of where services are doing well and where they can be improved. It will use this information to work for improvements in local services. Healthwatch Hillingdon will also provide residents with information about local health and care services including how to access them and what to do when things go wrong. It will help refer people to an independent person who can support them in making a complaint about NHS services.

Healthwatch Hillingdon has recruited eight Board Members to join the Chairman, Jeff Maslen, on the Board. This Board contains a balance of strong strategic leadership, governance, organisational and financial skills required to lead the new organisation. The Board will be able to represent the communities which it serves and ensure there is a good understanding of the broad areas of health and social care.

Healthwatch Hillingdon's 2014/2015 Annual Report has been attached as Appendix C.

Local Medical Committee (LMC)

Londonwide LMCs supports and acts on behalf of 27 Local Medical Committees (LMCs) across London. LMCs represent GPs and practice teams in their negotiations with decision makers and stakeholders from health and local government to get the best services for patients. They are elected committees of GPs enshrined in statute. Londonwide LMCs and LMCs also provide a broad range of support and advice to individuals and practices on a variety of professional issues.

A local medical committee is a statutory body in the UK. LMCs are recognised by successive NHS Acts as the professional organisation representing individual GPs and GP practices as a whole to the Primary Care Organisation. The NHS Act 1999 extended the LMC role to include representation of all GPs whatever their contractual status. This includes sessional GP and GP speciality registrars. The LMC represents the views of GPs to any other appropriate organisation or agency.

In the United Kingdom, LMCs have been the local GP committees since 1911. They represent all General Practitioners in their geographical area which is historically coterminous with the successive Primary Care Organisations or other healthcare administrative areas. As the organisation and complexity of primary care has increased and along with the call for increased professionalism and specialisation of for instance negotiators, LMCs' administrative structures have developed from a pile of papers on the kitchen table of the LMC medical secretary to permanent staff and offices with substantial assets. This has allowed the LMCs to develop relationships ranging over time, topic and space between mutual suspicion and antagonism to useful cooperation for common benefit with NHS administrative organisations.

Care Quality Commission

The role of the Care Quality Commission (CQC) is to make sure that hospitals, care homes, dental and GP surgeries, and all other care services in England provide people with safe, effective, compassionate and high-quality care, and encourage these organisations to make improvements. The CQC does this by inspecting services and publishing the results on its website to help individuals make better decisions about the care they receive.

Inspecting all health and social care services in England is not the only role the CQC undertakes. To make sure people receive safe and effective care, the CQC also takes enforcement action, registers services and works with other organisations. The CQC believes that everyone deserves to receive care that is safe, effective, compassionate and high-quality. For this to happen, the CQC inspects hospitals, care homes, GPs, dental and general practices and other care services all over England.
